

Dewey's Tide Is Swirling High; Start Voting Today

On the first ballot, completed at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon the four top leaders received the following votes:

Dewey 434
Taft 224
Stassen 157
Vandenberg 62

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—The tide for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, already swirling the Republican presidential nomination closer to his grasp, swelled higher today. Massachusetts Senator Leverett Saltonstall got out as a "favorite son" in Dewey's favor. West Virginia gave him a boost.

These developments in the final hours before the balloting gave it the look of a bandwagon roll. Dewey's aides were working on an acceptance speech.

A key mid-western leader, who has fought Dewey's nomination told reporters "it's all over," but asked not to be quoted by name.

Saltonstall announced he was withdrawing because he believed it "in the best interest of the Republican party in Massachusetts." He said he was for Dewey and had asked the Massachusetts delegates to "exercise their own best judgment."

Fight In Bay State Group

There has been a terrific fight within the bay state's 35-vote delegation. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and others have been holding out for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Walter S. Hallahan, West Virginia national committeeman, came out for Dewey. He said the New Yorker at the head of the ticket would make it certain the Republicans will carry border states in the fall elections.

Even after Hallahan's move—which was not unexpected—the anti-Dewey forces were talking bravely, but Saltonstall's move was a heavy blow.

Stassen had a pre-session conference with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts. Lodge is plugging Senator Arthur Vandenberg for the nomination. There are reports that Stassen, if he can't get the big prize himself, would prefer to see it go to Vandenberg.

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio conferred with members of the Utah and Kentucky delegations, and told reporters he also had been carrying on a lot of "telephone conferences."

Asked whether he was making any progress, Taft smiled.

"Yes, I think so," he said.

Dewey's camp suffered a disappointment when the Kansas delegation caucused and voted to cast 12 of its 19 votes for Dewey on the first ballot with the seven others scattered among Taft, Vandenberg, Stassen and Speaker Martin. Dewey men had claimed 14 to 16 Kansas votes.

Dewey Steamrolling

Before Hallahan's pro-Dewey statement, unofficial checks showed eight to 11 votes for Dewey in West Virginia's 16-vote delegation. It was not immediately clear whether Hallahan's action would add to that, but certainly it had an 11th hour psychological impact.

Dewey's backers obviously were out to steam-roller the opposition if they could.

As the time neared for the first call of the states at 2 p. m. The New Yorker's forces were ready to pour every available scrap of voting fuel into the boiler in the first two tries for the coveted prize.

With that steam up, the Dewey strategists counted on coasting to victory on the third roll call if they don't pull the trick earlier.

Against this, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and a scattering of favorite sons fought a defensive, delaying action.

Claim 500 Votes

Dewey leaders claimed they will reach 500 votes—only 48 short of the nomination—by the second ballot. And with that start, they said, nothing can stop them.

These claims were quickly and vigorously disputed from the other camps.

"That's rubbish," said Ted Gamble, convention manager for Stassen, in a typical opposition comment delivered from the crowded, sweaty floor of the convention—now entering its climactic fourth day.

Taft said Dewey won't hit 400 on the first count. "The Dewey tide has been stopped," the Ohio Senator insisted.

But a "we've-got-the-votes" quote came from J. Russell Sprague, New York National committeeman and a top Dewey leader, who added: "They can't stop us."

The opposition's strategy was for

County Continues To Lead Bond Sales

Adams county continues to run ahead of the state average in the sale of U.S. Savings bonds, Edmund W. Thomas, county chairman, was notified today by James W. Marvin, acting state director of the Treasury department's U.S. Savings Bond division.

Cumulative figures from April 1 to June 12 show that E bond sales in the county totalled $118,853, or 56.6 per cent of the county's goal. Total sales from April 1 to June 12 were $198,490, or 52.5 per cent of the county's quota.

As of June 12, the state as a whole has attained 51.8 per cent of its E bond quota and 47.9 per cent of its overall E, F and G bond quota, Marvin said.

The state director said that the security loan ends June 30, but that all bonds sold between now and July 17 will be counted in the final totals of the drive.

Every effort, he said should be set forth to put the county over the top by reaching its quota as quickly as possible.

ASK RETURN OF FRESH AIR GIRL SECOND SUMMER

Rose Sites, 14-year-old daughter of a Russian immigrant and World War II wounded veteran, is scheduled to come from New York July 23 to spend a second summer's visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Kooken and their four children at their farm on Gettysburg R. 4.

Rose has been requested by Mr. and Mrs. Kooken as their guest from the New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund, and if it is at all possible, Rose will be the last sent by the Fresh Air fund to Gettysburg to stay with the Kookens for another summer. Rose, writing from New York, where she lives on 69th street in the heart of the city, has told the family she hopes to be able to go back.

Maybe this year she will try to ride the horses on the Kooken's farm. Last year she took a look at the big animals and decided she'd not try to learn to ride. "I might get to like horses and I might never get another chance to ride them," is the way she put it.

Hope to Bring 30 Here

Described as a brilliant girl, the youngster teaches the Kooken children ranging from 16 to 5, as much about the city as they have been able to teach her about the farm. She learned to drive the tractor on the 156-acre farm, found the farm a wonderful thing, and charmed the entire family as much by her New York accent as by her New York outlook on life.

The service station of W. D. Shoemaker, on the Gettysburg-Littlestown road just at the outskirts of Littlestown, was also entered, according to a state police report.

A new cash register was jimmied open, but state police, after an investigation, said nothing had been taken.

GAS STATIONS BURGLARIZED

Two service stations, one in Gettysburg and one in Littlestown, were burglarized Wednesday night or early this morning, according to reports being investigated today by state and borough police.

Chief of Police Robert C. Harper said that a window at the Topper service station, East Lincoln avenue, was jimmied with a pinch bar, a drawer in a steel desk pried open and $50 taken from a cigar box in the drawer.

The service station of W. D. Shoemaker, on the Gettysburg-Littlestown road just at the outskirts of Littlestown, was also entered, according to a state police report.

A new cash register was jimmied open, but state police, after an investigation, said nothing had been taken.

COUPLE FACES SERIOUS COUNT

Members of the Friendly Town committee are seeking persons to welcome New York youngsters into their homes for two weeks starting July 23. They will be sent here by the Tribune Fresh Air fund. The committee hopes that Rose will have possibly 30 companions when she arrives here. Last year 15 youngsters were given vacations at homes of county residents.

Those interested in having a fresh air youngster from New York as guest for two weeks are asked to contact Mrs. J. Walter Coleman, phone Gettysburg 330-Y, or Mrs. Raymond Sheely, phone 520-X, prior to July 10.

If the potential host family desires it can designate the age, sex and religion of the child it wishes to entertain, members of the committee said.

Canteen Will Be Open This Evening

The Recreation Center will conduct a canteen in the new gymnasium of Gettysburg high school this evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock.

A radio will be provided for the reception of the broadcast of the Louis-Walcott boxing match. A number of new games will be available for the first time this season.

Plans for a roller skating party will be announced tonight.

News Collected At Random

Elsie Singmaster Lewis' new book, "The Isle of Que," will be published late this summer.

It will be a 152 page tome with decorations by Elmer Hader.

The following brief synopsis has been released by the publishers:

"The author's native Pennsylvania country and its beautiful river, the Susquehanna, are the scene of "The Isle of Que." The story concerns a large family who have learned from their mother to cook, camp, keep house, and cultivate the rich soil of the peninsula. They have much fun too; they row and sail on the river, fish, drive the old car, and go on picnics.

"The story centers in Tim Yoder and his sister Rosy, with the give-and-take of happy family life. One of Tim's early memories was of being carried from the house in a flood, and this with the legends he had heard of the river terrify him. Devoted to all his family, Tim is hunting to add to Sam's collection of Indian relics when he falls into an abandoned well.

Nominating Session Was Night Of Wild Hysteria

By RELMAN MORIN

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 24 (P)—A girl in a boat floats down the center aisle on a swirling stream of humanity.

The Highlanders, kilted and skirted, are right behind her.

A fire starts. The pipe organ blows a fuse. A cowbell clangs. A siren wails.

Balloons trailing pennons rise to the roof, far above, touch the lights and explode.

A blonde drum-majorite is hoisted atop the podium, struts, preens, and twirls her baton, hitting a delicate in the eye.

And while all this is going on, hundreds of people, most of them of middle age, well dressed and intelligent in appearance, are serpentineing around the hall, yelling, howling, bounding placards, pushing, sweating, running, stumbling, and refusing to quit.

This was nominating night at the Republican convention.

It lasted nearly seven hours, from 9:20 p. m. until almost the dawn's early light. Tens of thousands of words were spoken. Millions of volts of electricity were burned up in the lights, the public address system, the radio, television and telegraph.

They were the ones who floated

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE ADDED AT CAMP NAWAKWA

Improvements totalling $30,000 have been made to Camp Nawakwa during the past two years, according to a report made to the executive committee of the board of directors of the camp. In addition a number of other improvements are contemplated for the future.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee the board approved a project to enlarge the Upper Temple to accommodate an additional 100 guests, the Rev. George H. Berkheimer, director of the camp, announced today.

The board also plans to install shower units with hot and cold water and is considering the hard-surfacing of the tennis courts and application of a coat of amesite to the surface of the swimming pool. Among the improvements made at the camp during the past two years have been the installation of a new sewage disposal system, laying of a new water main and extension of each cabin by five feet and installation of bath facilities within the extensions.

Near Record Group

The second largest group in the camp's history is now enrolled at Nawakwa, with 233 Junior boys present for a one week camping period.

Among the youngsters are the following Adams countians: Jay H. Bream and David G. Gifford, of Gettysburg; Jack P. Gilbert, Mt. Joy; James L. Hollinger and Kenneth S. James, Littlestown; Charles R. Koons, York Springs, and Robert Howe, Bendersville.

Other countians at the camp include Peter and Richard Pennington, Roland Shriner, Samuel A. Small, Donald E. Smith and William R. Swisher, Jr., all of Gettysburg; John D. Polhemus, Abbottstown; Leonard L. Potter, and Jack Stites, of Littlestown; Howard H. Shockley, Jr., Arndtsville and Thomas R. Schriver, New Oxford.

Among those serving as counselors for the week are Carroll Frock, Emmitsburg; Donald H. Starr, Mt. Joy; the Rev. Roderic Sennit, Fayetteville; the Rev. Kenneth James, Littlestown; Charles L. Lady, Arendtsville; Theodore Horner, Gettysburg; John Logan, Westminster, Md.; Duane Saltzgaver, Westminster, Md.; Ellis U. Shaffer, Harrisburg; and Martin L. Stoyer, Jr., Harrisburg.

EWISH GROUP UNDERGROUND AFTER CLASH

By JAMES M. LONG
Tel Aviv, Israel, June 24 (P)—In a Zvai Leumi went back under ground today following its bloody clash with Haganah.

The organization, which came out of the open with the establishment of the new Jewish state of Israel May 15, resumed its position as an illegal, armed political group.

As a result, a major government crisis is appearing in the making. Two ministers quit the Israeli government yesterday and a party leader joined the Irgun-army rift squarely.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, a local Irgun leader, called on Jews in the Holy City to overthrow the Israeli government.

Paris' statement was issued in a name of Irgun, charging the new government with "pursuing a policy of surrender."

"The truth is," the statement said, "that the provisional government has already decided to put an end to the war and to get peace at any price."

Ordered Disbanded.

(A Tel Aviv broadcast heard in nodes said the Jewish government is ordered Irgun disbanded and its members immediately inducted into the Israeli army.)

Disorders shook Tel Aviv again yesterday during a funeral procession for Irgunists killed in Tuesday's battle with government troops on the Tel Aviv beachhead. Main streets of the city were cordoned off and a military curfew was predicted.

Irgunists clashed with Israeli troops on the Tel Aviv beach Tuesday during an attempt to unload a 50-ton Irgun munitions cargo from an LST in violation of the United Nations truce which forbids importation of arms during that period. Possibly 40 persons were reported killed in the skirmish, during which Israeli mortars blasted the arms ship and set it ablaze.

LESLIE VAUGHN, GUIDE, EXPIRES

Leslie S. Vaughn, 57, died at his home, Gettysburg R. 2, Emmitsburg road, this morning at 7 o'clock as a result of a heart condition. He had been in ill health for the past several years.

Born in Cumberland township, he was a son of the late Samuel B. and Annie L. Doll Vaughn. He was a Battlefield guide for about 30 years, and a member of St. James Lutheran church here and the local Moose Lodge.

Surviving are the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Bessie Lee, Gettysburg; Miss Carrie Vaughn, at home; Mrs. O. P. DeWitt, Lakeland, Fla.; Mrs. John Vaughn, York, and Roy Vaughn, Gettysburg.

Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Bender funeral home with the Rev. Dr. R. R. Gresh officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Friday evening.

Temperature Goes To 91 Degrees Today

Today was the hottest day so far this month and the second hottest day of the year. The mercury registered 91 degrees at 1:30 o'clock. It was the highest since May 11, when the official reading was 92 degrees.

The heat set no record for the day. Records show that it was 93 degrees on June 24, 1945, and that the mercury had gone much higher on other June 24s. In 1908 and again in 1923, the thermometer rose to 99 degrees on this date.

ONLY WAR CAN PUSH US OUT OF BERLIN; CLAY

Heidelberg, Germany, June 24 (P)—Gen Lucius D. Clay said today the Russians "cannot drive us out of Berlin by any action short of war."

The American military governor said the latest moves of the Soviets indicate they are trying to put on the final pressure to drive us out of Berlin."

"Unfortunately," Clay added, "the only way they can put on pressure is to make the Germans suffer."

By this he referred to the Russian squeeze on transport.

Few Weeks' Supplies

Clay estimated Berliners had supplies for no more than a couple of weeks. He praised the German administration in Berlin, saying it gave "a pretty high example of leadership" during the crisis.

Clay flew to Heidelberg to confer with top American commanders in this headquarters city. He said the talks were "purely routine." He returned to Berlin in the afternoon.

Clay said he had no plans for cutting off water and power to parts of the Soviet zone supplied from the American area state of Bavaria. He said, too, that the western sections of Berlin had enough water supplies of their own, and that they could supply about half the normal consumption of the area.

Clay said he did not consider the situation any more serious than it had been. The military governor was asked what he thought might come out of the Warsaw conference of eastern European states. "A lot of words," he replied. Then he said he would not be surprised if an eastern German government was formed.

New Sidewalk Plans

Secretary Keefer informed Council that on Tuesday afternoon, June 22, C. R. Forbes, district engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, was in Littlestown and that the secretary, Mr. Forbes and Roy D. Renner had gone over a revised plan for sidewalks and curbs along West King street from the old borough line to the present borough limits. Mr. Forbes explained that very few changes were made in the previous plan of September, 1946.

However, a slight fill would be made from Pennsylvania avenue to meet present conditions at the old borough line, while the new plan proposed a 40-foot roadway instead of 44 feet. The present plan would allow two 12-foot lanes for through traffic and eight feet space for parking on both sides. The former plan contemplated three 10-foot lanes for through traffic and seven feet for parking. Mr. Forbes further informed the secretary that if the Borough Council adopts an ordinance in accordance with the revised plans and then submits the revised ordinance for their approval, he saw no reason why they would not build their highway to meet the conditions of the sidewalks so constructed. However, he did recommend that an eight inch curb tapered from six inches at the top to seven inches at the bottom be constructed. The solicitor was authorized to prepare an ordinance repealing the present ordinance and ordaining the West King street section involved to meet the plans and specifications as outlined on the State Highway Department's plans dated June 22, 1948.

The purchase of material and repair parts for the chlorinators was approved as reported by the secretary.

Council was informed that Arthur E. Bair had requested a one-inch water service line to the Board of Trade building on the south side of Charles street. It was explained that if a new service line be placed to this building it should be larger than one inch. The matter of costs was also discussed. Council voted to install a two inch service line, the Board of Trade to pay for the excavation, backfilling and cost of a one inch pipe.

Water Permits Issued

President E. A. Rebert presented an application for a water service line by Oliver Erb for a new dwelling outside of the borough along W. King street extended. Mr. Erb will dig the trench, furnish and lay all the pipe necessary for extending his service from the present service line, at a charge of $25. Council voted to furnish him with borough water on those conditions plus the usual charges and non-resident charge of $7.50 per year.

Water permits were issued during the month to Ralph R. Snyder, James avenue; to Clair A. and Mary E. Beamer; and to Jessie S. Hopper, 131 Cemetery street.

Building permits were granted to Ralph H. Dehoff, 46 Lumber street, paint dwelling; to Estella Saylor, 62 Crouse Park to paint and repair two story frame dwelling; to Charles A. Hofe, contractor, to excavate and construct a one story, frame, composition roof dwelling on James avenue for Ralph R. Snyder; and to C. P. Myers to remove roof and replace with metal and general repairing of elevator shaft at two story brick building for Mrs. J. Harry Weaver, Cemetery street.

Treasurer Flickinger reported the following monies received from Howard G. Blocher, Justice of the Peace for May and June: a parking meter violation and "U" turns at traffic light, $31.

Fines Are Listed

Treasurer Flickinger also reported receiving the following monies from Burgess Mehring for fines for the month of June: overtime parking at meter, $25; parking too close to fire hydrant, $5; disorderly conduct, Richard C. Mumment, $50; and M. G. Shue, Mummasburg, Pa., for violating ordinance 115 by connecting bathing room and kitchen fixtures to sewer lateral not in accordance with good plumbing practices, without a plumber's permit and failing to report the said connection, fine, $25, costs, $2.30, total, $27.30; grand total received from Burgess Mehring, $107.30.

James M. Herring, whose term as a member of the Littlestown Borough Authority expires July 9, was reappointed for a term of five years ending July 9, 1953.

The treasurer's report showed total June expenditures, borough fund, $1,430 and total expenditures, Water Fund, $1,075.59. Parking meter fund expenditures were: Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter company, 50 per cent of May collections from Parking meters, $226.57; John H. Flickinger, transfer to general borough fund, $1,500 and Leon H. Gage, collecting and servicing meters, $15 a total of $1,741.57. Total sanitary sewer fund expenditures for June were $1,190.61, and total expenditures of all funds $5,437.91, less $1,500 transferred to general fund, $3,937.91.

The meeting was held in the office of the borough secretary, President Rebert presiding. Other members present were councilmen LeRoy M. Wintrod, Walter L. DeGroot, John N. Sell, Edgar H. DeGroot and J. Edgar Yealy, Charles R. Mehring, burgess; John H. Flickinger, treasurer and Rodge J. Keefer, secretary.

NEW TELEVISION METHOD SHOWN

Zanesville, Ohio, June 24 (AP)—The Westinghouse Electric corporation has announced plans to make regular use of its stratovision method of spreading television over wide areas if the federal communications commission gives its approval.

The company has applied for permission to operate a stratovision plane over Pittsburgh to rebroadcast television to the surrounding area. Westinghouse officials say such a flying television station could reach 250 miles in every direction from Pittsburgh, compared with the normal range of 35 to 50 miles for a ground station.

The company told of its plans following the first public demonstration of stratovision here last night. Ordinary home receivers brought in a telecast of the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia. A stratovision plane flying nearly five miles above Pittsburgh picked up telecasts of the convention by three tallies, and two successive triples scored the other one.

The reception was spotty at times due to what Westinghouse engineers said was interference that would not be encountered under regular commercial operations. However, much of the telecast was fairly clear although it was originating from a station nearly 300 miles away, far beyond the normal range of a ground station.

The co-developers of stratovision, Westinghouse and the Glenn L. Martin company, claim it could provide coast-to-coast television much earlier than otherwise would be possible and could extend service into areas that may not have stations for years—if ever.

Neutral experts took a cautious attitude toward stratovision pending further tests of its practical aspects.

TRACKS BLOCKED

Coatesville, Pa., June 24 (P)—Two tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad's main line were tied up for several hours yesterday when 11 cars of a 48 car freight train derailed at Cahn, two miles east of here. None was injured. The freight train was east bound when the cars derailed. A company spokesman said the cars remained upright and passenger and freight traffic continued on the line's other two tracks without delay.

Passport Fraud Witness Quizzed

Philadelphia, June 24 (P)—Fong Hong, Chinese laundryman, testified in federal district court yesterday that he acted as a witness in at least four alleged passport frauds charged against two former federal government officials.

"I didn't know what they were. I just signed them," the 66-year old Fong declared through a Chinese interpreter.

The pair being tried are former U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin and Warren J. Belcher, former head of the Philadelphia passport office. They are charged with conspiracy.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press) The Eastern league's second place can be had these days for a three-run Homer.

Utica took it from Williamsport last night, using the same device the Tigers had employed the night before.

The Blue Sox whipped the Tigers 4-1, all in the first inning. A circuit blow by Jim Ackerel was good for three tallies, and two successive triples scored the other one.

The reception was spotty at times due to what Westinghouse engineers said was interference that would not be encountered under regular commercial operations. However, much of the telecast was fairly clear although it was originating from a station nearly 300 miles away, far beyond the normal range of a ground station.

RIVERS FLOOD IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, June 24 (P)—Highway patrolmen, working against the crest deadline of the rampaging Canadian river, early today evacuated the 300 persons in the eastern Oklahoma farm community of Whitefield.

Persons in that town were more fortunate than those in other sections of Oklahoma, where nine have been found drowned and 3,000 others made homeless. With other communications out, walkie-talkie radio sets were pressed into service in an effort to locate other flood victims.

Hydro in the western Oklahoma wheat belt was hardest hit. An unofficial 19 inches of rain caused a flash flood on Deer creek which inundated the city.

At Okmulgee in northeastern Oklahoma, national guardsmen patrolled streets against looters after the business district was under water.

Okmulgee creek, which cuts through the heart of that city of 19,000 persons, forced almost 2,000 persons from their homes. All roads from the town were cut off by the high waters.

Today's Talk

THE UNSUSPECTED

The joy and thrill which traveling gives us all are matched only by the new and unsuspected that meet our eyes and stir our consciousness. During these vacation days, when so many of us leave our homes and travel to unvisited places, we would be dull indeed did we not gain deeply from the experience of the unsuspected.

Here is a sentence from the great Hilaire Belloc, the English writer. He said: "We wander for distraction, but we travel for fulfillment." Undoubtedly this is why we find widely travelled people so interesting and inspiring. They use their mind equipment to good advantage. The unsuspected is what stirs the mind and stimulates it. That's why we all should do as much running around as is possible. It broadens and develops.

You plan a trip. Often you study the material sent to you by a travel agency. Your anticipation warms and you make note of the special places you wish to see or about which you have read or been told. Then the day arrives for your departure, and soon you are in the midst of your anticipated dreams. You see what you expected—but it's the unexpected, which your literary material never mentioned, that gives you the highest satisfaction, for you have become the discoverer!

For years I read about Nova Scotia and intended visiting it some day. That day arrived—but what I found was vastly more interesting and exciting to me than anything I had ever read about the place. So much so that I accepted the opportunity of making a hide-out retreat there, and now for eighteen years my small island retreat has been a miniature summer heaven and haven to me. And all because its beauty before visiting had been unsuspected.

In my own country, and in Canada where most of my traveling has been, it has always been the unsuspected that has given me the most pleasure. I have never quite found what I originally thought I would find. This was true of my visit to the Grand Canyon, the Canadian Rockies, and to many of the interesting American cities, like New Orleans, Charleston, S. C., and Tulsa, Oklahoma. I never suspected such a modern city as the latter. Nor did I expect to find in New Orleans an old city within the new.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Something to Do."

FOOTWEAR

Upon heels six inches high
She goes gayly tripping by.
And she shows
Through her nylon stocking thread,
Painted thickly poppy red,
Her big toes.

Round her ankles, oh so slim!
Is a bit of leather trim,
Tightly clipped.
And the thought occurs to me.
What a tragedy 'twould be
If she slipped.

Man's a brute, beyond a doubt,
But his footweart must be stout,
Black or tan.
Though a woman trusts her legs
On a pair of slender pegs,
Not a man!

He's afraid of catching cold;
Must have shoes of leather soled.
And his toes
Are such ugly things to see,
Which, though fashionable, he Never shows.

STUDY COSMIC RAYS HIGH ON MOUNT EVANS

By FRANK PITTMAN

Mount Evans, Colo., June 24 (P)—Two Princeton university scientists huffed and puffed amid snow squalls and curious tourists yesterday to set up their cosmic ray laboratory on the stormy slopes of this 14,260-foot mountain.

Inquiring travelers who stopped along the world's highest automobile road weren't primarily interested in the scientific import of the operations.

"How high are we? How cold is it?" were their questions. (The elevation was 13,700 feet and the temperature 20 degrees.)

After Big Game

Dr. Lloyd G. Lewis, Princeton physicist, found it easy to give those answers. It was more difficult to explain how his complicated ionization chambers and a bunch of metal "dishpans" may unlock scientific mysteries.

The dishpans are actually half-spheres. Some are made of iron, some of lead (the heaviest 900 pounds) and some of aluminum. They are fitted together to form a perfect ball. Inside the ball are sensitive recording devices. The instruments show what happens to atomic nuclei when struck by cosmic rays which come from outside the earth's atmosphere. The effects vary depending upon whether the cosmic ray strikes through an iron, lead or iron ball.

Physicists believe that by breaking up the atom with the cosmic rays they can learn the makeup of atomic nuclei. They say if they can do that they'll know what makes up all matter and life itself.

the boat, sent the buxom and be-sweated little drum-major of the podium, along with a Sioux Indian chief and the Scottish highlanders. They were the ones, too, who stormed the galleries and put two brass bands on the floor, each blaring a different tune.

California Disappointing

California, frankly, was a disappointment. The demonstration was neither noisy nor colorful. It was without a single novelty. True, Miss Irene Dunn and George Murphy, film stars, appeared on the podium and dutifully chanted "We want Warren," for some 26 minutes.

But somehow you expected more from California, the equivalent in demonstrations, of the super-markets and palatial gas stations that dot the Golden state.

The manifestation for Gov. Thompson was second in length, second in exuberance, and second in spontaneity. Quite possibly, however, the recent favorable events—in terms of delegates—convinced Dewey's adherents that the old college try was hardly necessary. He seems very close to being "in," as they say in political circles.

Among the other interesting events were:

The organ, after the blown fuse was restored, got stuck on a low diapason, so that for about an hour, a sound that combined the rumble of thunder tinted with a whirling airplane propeller, throbbed through the hall during all the speeches.

The Indian chief, in full head-dress, and carrying a peace pipe and a tobacco pouch, borrowed a cigar-rette from the nearest newspaperman.

An unhappy lady demonstrator, parading and determinedly bouncing a placard, croaked to the man behind her, "I've been tuning up all night, and now I'm too hoarse to yell."

At the very end, an unidentified man strolled up to the rostrum, leaned over on one elbow, and whistled happily into the microphones.

It was a great night.

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

A triple followed by a single in the ninth inning gave the Hagerstown Owls a 7-6 win over the Wilmington Blue Rocks in the interstate league last night.

Despite the loss, Wilmington remained six and a half games ahead of the second place York White Roses. York dropped an 8-7 decision to the Trenton Giants.

In the only other game played last night, the Lancaster Red Roses picked up a full game on the sixth place Sunbury Reds, taking the third and final game of a series 9-6. The Harrisburg game was rained out.

Today's schedule: Wilmington at York, Lancaster at Harrisburg, Trenton at Hagerstown and Allen-town at Sunbury.

RAIN FIREBOMBS ON GREEK REDS

Second Army Corps Headquarters, Kozane, Greece, June 24 (P)—The Greek army rained 500-pound firebombs today on Communist rebels fighting desperately to defend the eastern flank of their Grammos mountain stronghold.

Captured guerrillas said their losses on Amouda ridge, northwest of Nestorion, were "terrific." They were slammed by artillery and planes all day yesterday.

A high-ranking Greek officer said the tough Amouda fight, though apparently holding up the army's advance, was serving the purpose of a powerful offensive aimed at smashing Communist rebellion.

"Our job is to kill and destroy bandits," the officer said. "That's what's happening on Amouda."

Unofficial reports listed nearly 600 guerrilla casualties since the offensive started Sunday night. Rebel leader Markos Vafiades was reported then to have about 7,000 men in the 1,000-mile-square Grammos pocket.

There was little news here concerning fighting on the western side of the pocket, where spearheads of the ninth division are trying to ram through and make junction with troops of the first and 15th divisions from the east. Such a junction would close the rebel escape route north to Albania.

COURT ORDERS

BLOCK STRIKE

New York, June 24 (P)—New federal court orders barring threatened shipping strikes on three coasts and in the Great Lakes region were in effect today.

The orders were issued in New York, San Francisco and Cleveland yesterday—on the eve of the expiration of temporary strike bans obtained by the government.

In New York, the full force of a Taft-Hartley law clause was invoked by Federal Judge John W. Clancy who extended a 10-day restraining order to an 80-day anti-strike injunction.

The "cooling off" order affects 70,000 shipping workers—members of the CIO Maritime Union and two other CIO unions—on the east and Gulf coasts.

In San Francisco, Judge George B. Harris extended for another 10 days the temporary restraining order issued June 14 against five unions representing 30,000 workers. He withheld a ruling on four motions to dismiss the government's request for an 80-day injunction.

The "conscience fund" of the U. S. Treasury is made up of money sent by anonymous citizens who deliberately or unintentionally defrauded the government some time past and later make restitution.

One man recently sent a payment "for a souvenir acorn he had picked up while strolling over the Gettysburg Battlefield."

President Truman recently signed a resolution authorizing a postage stamp to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the poultry industry.

The design, however, will be left to Postmaster General Donaldson. He will have to decide whether the chicken or the egg will be honored in the design.

As for books, from which the store takes its name—Mr. Meligakis promises, and has, a new and complete assortment in all subjects for both adults and juveniles. In the office supply department, the store will, in time, fulfill its boast—"Our aim is to be able to supply your needs from a lead pencil to office furniture and mechanical devices."

Here are a few helpful swimming hints:

Be sure you are physically fit for swimming.

Allow at least two hours to elapse after eating before entering the water.

Never swim without at least one companion who is either swimming with you or watching, and who is capable of helping.

Do not dive or jump in until the water has been thoroughly explored and proved free from danger.

The undefeated Texas Lunch team capped its 10th straight decision Wednesday evening by defeating the Lentz Legion 5-3 in a ten-inning Community Softball league game on the college field.

Both teams put up excellent games with the result the contest was one of the best of the season. Three double plays were great aid to the lunchmen, one coming in the sixth inning to prevent a score when the Legion filled the bases with none out.

In the top half of the ninth inning, after two were out, Boehmer singled and Frying circled the bases on a drive to right field to clinch the contest.

A six-run attack in the second inning gave the Elks a comparatively easy 7-0 victory over Grandview in the nightcap on the college field.

Bill Bushman permitted the Grandview outfit but three hits.

The Stanton Legion upset Knox's Store 7-6 in the opening on the high school field. After getting off to a 5-0 lead, the Stanton aggregation lost its lead to Knox's outfit but rallied in the seventh inning for two runs to sew up the decision.

Two big innings, the first and third, in which they tallied 10 runs, gave the Moose a 10-4 victory over the Inductive Equipment nine on the high school diamond.

J. McKenrick paced the winners with four safeties in as many times at bat.

Hershey, Pa., June 24 (AP)—Youthful baseball aspirants will get a chance to show their ability here next week at the Philadelphia Athletics Traveling Baseball school.

The school will open Monday for a week-long session under the direction of Ira F. Thomas and Jack Coombs, A's stars of yesteryear.

They will sign likely teen-agers to contracts for seasoning at one of the Athletics' 10 farms.

Bloomfield, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Twenty-three entries have been received to date for the national A.A.U. Decathlon championships and final Olympic tryouts Saturday and Sunday at Foley field, Al Post, president of the sponsoring New Jersey A.A.U., announced today.

The Olympic hopefuls from 16 states will seek, in addition to national honors, the three places on the American Olympic Decathlon team for the London games next month.

More Showers Coming

The weather bureau, in a rut, promised more showers and thunderstorms today and tomorrow. If washed out a second time, the bout will be staged Friday, and so on.

The two Joes appeared tight-strung at the weigh-in ceremonies. Although they stood so close that at times their muscles almost touched, they didn't speak.

Once the champion, coldly impulsive, and the challenger, his ring-marked features determinedly set, swapped glances—just for a moment, then both looked away.

Walcott More Calm

Of the two, Walcott seemed looser and more relaxed despite the champ's reputation for tremendous calm.

Louis hummed on the scales and weighed 213%, the heaviest ring weight of his career. Walcott registered 194%. They won't have to repeat the act today. Dr. Vincent Nardiello, New York State Athletic commission physician, gave the batters a thorough examination.

Louis is "physically and mentally better" than he was for the first Walcott fight December 5, Nardiello said. On that occasion the boxer received a split, disputed decision after being banged to the canvas twice.

Walcott's condition, the physician added, is "excellent."

Find My Killer

By MANLY WELLMAN

Chapter 13
As we drove to my hotel, I told Holmgren about the white-flecked button and where I'd found it.

"Even if Doc Stokes was the type of guy whose buttons are always ready to drop off, I know what he was wearing at the time the body was discovered and it wasn't the tweed suit that goes with that button."

"You think the doctor would wear two suits in one day?"

"He would if he wore the first of the two to kill somebody in."

Up in my room I stowed the bundle on a shelf in the closet and picked up the phone and asked for room service.

"Oh, you're in, Mr. Yates," said the desk clerk. "I've some calls for you. Your office, and a Mr. Oporto."

"Oporto?" I repeated. The name didn't tell me anything. "Did he leave a number?"

"No. He said to tell you he'd call again."

"Thanks. I'll be listening for him."

I hung up, trying to check my past for anyone named Oporto. It didn't register and I stopped worrying for the moment.

My telephone rang. I picked it up and answered it.

"Mississ Yatess?" asked a breathy male voice.

"Speaking. Who's this?"

"My name iss Oporto. I am friend of Alchisze. You know Alchisze?"

"Dr. Stokes's house boy. Yes."

"I was therre with him, in kitch'en, last week. I see into front room. Doctor Sstokes was reading letter."

"So?" I prompted him.

Doctor Sstokes did not like letter. He make to tear letter. Then he put letter in envelope, put envelope in book, put book in shelf. Letter make him mad."

"Maybe it was an overdue bill. Why tell me all this?"

"You want to find murderr. Yes?"

"Yes. But how does this thing you're talking about tie in?"

"I tell you. I hear Doctor Sstokes talk. Talk to himself. Doctor Sstokes says: 'All right. Dick! We see who get hurt!'"

"Hold it just a minute," I said. It put my hand over the transmitter and whispered to Holmgren. "Buss downstairs to the switchboard and have this call traced. I'll keep him talking."

Holmgren was up and out of the room on the run. I talked into the phone again. "Now look, Oporto, what might be your interest in all this?"

"Interress?" he blurted out in his heavy accent. "Want reward mon-ey."

"How much do you think you should have?" I asked.

"You give me two hundred. I call you up after you see letter. You need for witness, no?"

"I need you for witness, yes. What's your address?"

"I call you up," he said again. "Goodbye, Mississ Yatess."

"Wait Oporto!"

But he had hung up. I hurried downstairs. Holmgren was coming back through the lobby.

"He was in a phone booth across the street in a drug store," said Holmgren. "I got over there, but there wasn't anybody in the booth. Now, what's it all about?"

"About Dr. Stokes. How about visiting his house?"

As we started away in his car, Holmgren spared me one look from the corner of his eye. "Make with what this new trip is for."

I made with it, about Oporto, his funny accent, and what he'd suggested. Holmgren nodded. "That's enough to ask the doctor's house boy about, all right."

Alchisze opened the door and waited for us to tell what we wanted. His brown face was patient. Holmgren flicked his badge into view and out of view again. "Police," he said. "Is your name Alchisze? Tell us where to find your friend Oporto."

Alchisze let the patient expression fade. "Oporto," he repeated slowly. "Don't know anybody named Oporto."

"He knows you," I said. "He was visiting you in your kitchen last week."

"Not anybody name Oporto," insisted Alchisze.

I stepped in past him and Holm followed.

"I know this," Alchisze was saying to Holmgren. "You can't come in without show a warrant. Right?"

"We're already in, Alchisze," said Holmgren.

I went through six books, eight books. Then, as I took the next book from the shelf, something slipped from between its leaves. I stooped down and grabbed it.

The envelope was addressed to Dr. Stokes in ink—a man's hand-writing, and handwriting I'd seen before, in that codicil J. D. had shown to me. "A letter from Richard Ealing," I added.

It was really one half sheet of notepaper, cut along the crease with a knife and folded once to fit the envelope.

You may think Diane is the right girl for you, but I'm the wrong husband to steal a wife from. I'll say it in short words, so we can both understand. Stay away from Diane. Trespassers will be shot without second warning.

Richard Ealing

"How do you like that?" said Holmgren to me.

MORE HEARINGS ON MILK PRICES

Harrisburg, June 24 (P)—The State Milk Control Commission, prompted by a threat to Pennsylvania's milk price structure, scheduled hearings yesterday to stay out of beauty contests or be excommunicated.

He stuck to that. Nobody could look any more blank and sound any more stubborn than Alchisze. We were still at him when a car stopped in front, and we heard quick feet coming. I went into the hall ahead of Alchisze and opened the door.

It was Dr. Stokes, wearing the black-and-white tweed. He looked pale and angry.

"Doctor," said Holmgren. "I'm a police officer. You're under arrest for murder."

Chapter 14
Dr. Stokes was about to say something else but he didn't say it. He only stared at me, then at Holmgren, then at me again.

"May I inquire," he said, "just who it is I'm supposed to have murdered?"

"It's Richard Ealing, Doctor."

"Dick Ealing committed suicide," said Dr. Stokes.

"You killed him," I said. "We've searched your house and we've found the evidence to prove the murder."

"Either you two are fools or crooks. Any more talking on the subject will be done through my lawyer."

"And who's your lawyer?" said Holmgren.

"J. D. Thatcher," Dr. Stokes said. "Alchisze, call Attorney J. D. Thatcher at once. Come on, let's go down to your headquarters and get it over with. I have an engagement tonight."

We rode in silence to the police station and got out and went in at the main door. Holmgren knocked at a heavy door marked HOMICIDE DETAIL, then pushed the door open and waved for us to come in.

There was a big desk in the middle of the tiled floor, and several chairs were ranged along the walls. Behind the desk sat one of the biggest men I ever saw outside a circus.

"What do you want?" the man asked Holmgren, twinkling little bright eyes at him.

"This is Mr. Yates, Winkle," said Holmgren. He didn't introduce the doctor. "We want to see Lieutenant Raniel."

Winkle's beady eyes crawled a little forward under their heavy lids, then he walked, heavily but not clumsily, to door behind him, and knocked twice.

The door opened and Winkle started to talk, but Holmgren moved forward. "I'll tell you what it's about, Raniel," he said. "Yates, you, and the doctor make yourselves comfortable out here."

Raniel opened the rear door a crack. "Come in here, Mr. Yates," he called.

I went in. Raniel sat down at his desk. "Let's have the evidence that Holmgren tells me you've got, and the story that goes with it."

I started to talk. At the right time I brought out one envelope and tilted the button out on his desk. He bent to study it without touching it while I explained all I knew about it. Then I brought out the envelope with the note in it.

Raniel was print-conscious. He shook the note out of its envelope without reaching in for it, and unfolded it with a paper knife. He read it, moving his lips silently. Then he grinned again, upside down and showing his great big teeth. I could see that they were false and didn't fit too well.

"And you say this is Richard Ealing's handwriting?" he asked me.

"I'm no handwriting expert, but it looks like what I've seen of it," I said.

"There's our motive and the evidence of it," he said. "And this same out of a book in Dr. Stokes' house. Now about this phone call you say you got. How do you explain it?"

I went over the matter of the mysterious Oporto ringing me at my hotel. Raniel wrote down the name. "We'll get out the rake and bring him in," he promised. "He'll clinch things. Now, what else?"

"The sickles," Holmgren prompted me, and I told about them, too. Raniel smiled the more.

"Now Mr. Yates, how about letting Winkle and me do the main questioning? You stand by and listen. Either help me out when I ask you, or follow whatever lead I toss you."

"What about me?" put in Holmgren.

With the paper-knife Raniel pushed the note and its envelope toward him.

"Take those to your lab and bring out what fingerprints they've got."

Raniel nodded to me and we went out. "Well, Dr. Stokes," said Raniel.

"Well, Lieutenant Raniel," replied Dr. Stokes, from where he sat very

Bishop Orders Girls Shun Beauty Shows

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24 (P)—Bishop John J. Swint told Catholic girls of the Wheeling diocese yesterday to stay out of beauty contests or be excommunicated.

His warning came after a Catholic girl, Gertrude Bedway, dropped out of a contest here. She said the bishop told her to withdraw or be expelled from the church.

Bishop Swint confirmed the girl's explanation.

He called modern beauty pageants "totally pagan" and "absolutely immoral," and protested the "indecent exposure" of girls' bodies before the public.

operative, Inc., the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association and the Milk Distributors Association of Philadelphia. The new series were listed on the heels of those already or to be held for the Schuykill, Scranton, Erie and Harrisburg areas.

The commission announced the additional hearings after the U. S. Department of Agriculture recommended Tuesday a producer price of $9.00 a hundredweight (46½ quarts) in the Philadelphia area for July, August and September and $6.30, a new high, for October, November and December. The present producer price is $5.56 a hundredweight.

The commission, in all cases, is expected to draw up new orders for retail price increases of up to two cents for the short supply season of October, November and December.

"We'll start with what some of that evidence tells us," Raniel announced. "Yates, why don't you pop out and bring back the evidence that shows how Pettigrew got his price?"

"Glad to." I started for the door. "You'd save a lot of trouble by making a statement." Raniel told the doctor.

"And you'd save a lot by dropping this half-brained business," was the reply as I left.

USSR TIGHTENS HOLD ON BERLIN; CUT OFF POWER

By EDWIN SHIANKE

Berlin, June 24 (AP) — The Russians tightened their squeeze on Berlin today. They cut off electric power to the western allies' sectors of the city and halted all food shipments on rail lines running from western Germany.

The official Soviet and German Communist press demanded anew that the western allies quit the city. In Warsaw the foreign ministers of Russia and seven of her satellite countries were reliably reported to be putting the last touches on plans to set up a separate government in eastern Germany.

Executive committee members named were: S. B. Alloway, Erie, chairman; Albert Cliffe, Ridgeway; David J. Davis, Altoona; Richard Bitner, Lansdale; Richard Kaczmarcik, Mahanoy City, and Joseph Carcangi, Chester.

Scranton Man Heads Druggists

Harrisburg, June 24 (AP) — Willard Allen, Scranton druggist, is the new president of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association.

Allen was elected yesterday at the group's 70th annual convention which also named these other officers:

L. A. Heckler, of Pittsburgh, president-elect; Ray T. Peffer, Harrisburg, first vice president, and Sheldon Castles, Scranton, second vice president.

Executive committee members named were: S. B. Alloway,

Fear Inroads

The anti-garb backers say this would enable the Catholic church to make inroads on public education.

Catholic church officials say nuns teach in 19 public schools, all but four of which are in the west-central part of the state. They say all pupils in 10 of these schools come from Catholic families and that enrollment in the other nine is predominantly

Catholic. They also say the nuns hold teaching positions only where local school boards want them. They contend the number of Protestant ministers teaching in public schools also has increased in recent years.

The increases are regarded generally as due to the lay teacher shortage brought on by the recent war.

Pennsylvania Delegation Split: 41 Votes For Dewey, 27 For Senator Taft

VANDEBERG AND STASSEN EACH GET ONE

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP) — The split in the potent Pennsylvania delegation at the Republican convention was official today—with the Martin-Grundy forces on top with 41 votes for Governor Dewey.

Gov. James D. Duff, a leader in the purported stop-Dewey movement, garnered 27 other votes for Senator Robert A. Taft in a last minute swing to the Ohioan.

"He is the candidate showing some strength in the convention," Duff commented when asked about the decision. He previously had been listed among supporters of Senator Vandenberg for the Presidential nomination.

Vandenberg and Harold E. Stassen each got one Pennsylvania vote; three others declined to vote in a drama-packed caucus last night. It was held in a conference room just off the main convention floor.

Martin Speaks

The delegates acted after hearing Senator Martin make an impassioned defense of his dramatic switch to Dewey two days ago.

"I dropped out (as a favorite-son candidate) when I felt it was for the good of Pennsylvania and the United States," Martin said.

He said he had asked for a caucus Tuesday and failing to secure that, "as many delegates were canvassed as possible."

"I would like to be President of the United States," Martin continued, "but this is a critical period and the man to lead us should be a young and vigorous man."

He insisted "no deals" were involved in the change and added:

"If God gives me health and strength I will be serving you in the TOWN HONORS HERO — Statue of Marine Gunner Sgt. John Basilone, Congressional Medal of Honor winner who was killed on Iwo Jima, is unveiled at Raritan, N. J.

Senate for the next four and a half years."

Martin said he wanted to avoid "a debacle like eight years ago" when Pennsylvania was still caucusing as the 1940 GOP convention was nominating Wendell Willkie.

The Senator said some of those criticizing him now for "pulling out" earlier had expressed fear he would stay in too long.

Scores Martin

Previously Frank C. Hilton, of Womelsdorf, said Martin should have given the delegates the courtesy of hearing of his decision before they read it in the papers.

Hilton, head of the Pennsylvania veterans of Foreign Wars, said he was a comparative newcomer in politics but "we know when our leg is pulled."

Duff's only comment mentioning Senator Martin at the caucus was a statement that he believed that there was never "a more patriotic citizen."

"I will always continue to have that opinion and he will always continue to be worth it," Duff added.

The whole affair took place in a circus-like atmosphere. Newsmen were ranked around the room three and four deep.

Present in his shirtsleeves was octogenarian Joseph P. Grundy, former head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association and key political figure.

"European Blitz"

Duff and Martin had been close friends and political associates for a score of years before the present break. When Martin was governor, Duff was his attorney general. The two men campaigned together in 1946 for their present offices. It was Martin who helped persuade other GOP leaders to support Duff for governor.

"It is the first time in American politics when the European blitz tactics have been used to secure a Republican nomination," Duff told newsmen only a few hours before the crucial caucus.

Asked who was using them, Duff said "the Dewey camp."

He had just emerged from his third conference in two days with Senator Taft and Harold E. Stassen.

Duff left Convention Hall immediately after the caucus without commenting on the vote. He later returned to watch the Dewey demonstration. Associates said he was unimpressed.

"The boing that came then showed the resentment of the delegates to the Dewey tactics," he was quoted as saying.

Roll Is Called

The caucus action came on a motion of Hilton that the delegation refuse to endorse Dewey. G. Mason Owlett, national committeeman, immediately amended it to permit delegates to voice a choice.

After some wrangling from the floor, Samuel Lewis, delegation secretary, began calling the roll. Each delegate rose and announced his choice.

Duff's name was called first. He replied "Taft." Next came Senator Martin and he said "Dewey." Among the delegates at-large, Owlett and Mrs. Worthington Scranton, the national committeeman, followed Martin. State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor and Edna B. Carroll, former vice chairman, went for "Taft."

Lieutenant Governor Daniel B. Strickler also was a "Dewey" man, although Lancaster county's two district delegates voted for "Taft."

Philly Votes Divided

Philadelphia's 12 votes were divided evenly. Delaware county went for "Taft" and Allegheny county cast six votes for Taft and two for Dewey.

Two Pittsburgh delegates and Judge Norman T. Boose of Somerset, refused to vote for anyone. As a result, Pennsylvania will cast only 70 votes on the first ballot.

A new caucus will be necessary for later tallies.

One delegate said there are already indications some of the Taft votes will go to Stassen after the first ballot. The former Minnesota governor now has only the vote of Jay Cooke of Philadelphia.

The sole Vandenberg vote came from Esdras F. Howell, Scranton lawyer, who previously was the only holdout on the "favorite son" pledge for Martin.

GOP Convention POLITICS WAGED LIKE COLD WAR AT CONVENTION

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—If you could see this Republican convention from the inside, you'd understand how cold politics are.

There are two worlds here:

1. The roar of the crowd, the lights, the singing, the routine chores of the convention itself.

2. The behind-the-scenes dickering.

Take a look at the candidates themselves, the men who want to be picked by this convention as the Republican nominee for President:

New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, Minnesota's former Governor Harold E. Stassen, California's Governor Earl Warren, among them.

In the morning, the 1,094 delegates flock out to the convention hall for the speeches, the lights, the ordinary business of a convention.

Stay In Hotel Rooms

But not one of the candidates shows up there. They stay back in their hotel rooms, with telephones near at hand, and their lieutenants working feverishly.

Their job is to win over the support of those delegates who are so busy on the convention floor.

The raw and naked desire for political power is wide open here.

But it isn't hard to understand the drama in this show if these things are taken into account:

1. The Presidency of the United States is the highest honor this country has to offer.

2. The Republicans have a better chance of winning this election than at any time since Franklin D. Roosevelt won the Democratic nomination in 1932.

3. With a couple of possible exceptions, the top men here are at the climax of their public service careers.

Taft, at 59, may get another crack at the nomination but he's been skating around the edge of it for years. His whole life up to this point has been a build-up for the nomination.

If he misses now, the rest of his life in the Senate will be a kind of anti-climax.

Third Try For Dewey

Dewey has been in the public eye a long time—as a racket-buster and then as governor of New York, although he's only 46.

He came close to the nomination in 1940, got it in 1944 but lost, and now once again is looking for it.

If he gets it now, he has a good chance of being elected. But, if he misses now, he can hardly hope to get up to this peak again.

Stassen has been governor of California several times. He has given

GOP Convention BIGWIGS GET THEIR CHANCE IN SPOTLIGHT

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—The Republicans went back to the ring Tuesday, not for fighting, but to reward some more of the faithful.

They had not yet begun the wondrous, roistering, donnybrook that eventually will give them the name of their candidate for the presidency. That comes later. Just now, protocol is still being served.

It demands that a certain number of deserving ladies and gentlemen shall be given the honor of mounting a green wooden box, peering past the gleaming microphones, and having a moment or so in the lime-light.

It is a pitiless light, hot, blue-his state distinguished service.

But with him, as in the case of Dewey, there isn't much more he can do to win prestige. His life is at a climax here.

Stassen alone of all the candidates seems to be the one who can run again for nomination, if he loses out this time.

white and revealing.

It brings out wrinkles and freckles, starts little silver rivulets of perspiration to running, and blights the corsages. It seems to dazzle the speakers, so that they respond blindly to the applause, uncertainly gesturing like a man fumbling for the light-switch in the dark.

"Moment Of Glory"

But it is a moment of glory. They merely offer a resolution. For example, George Murphy, the motion picture actor, came all the way to the stage from the California delegation on the far left side of the great hall, past the banked flowers in front of the rostrum; up the steps, through a crowd of newspapermen, and down the aisle to the green box Monday.

He offered a motion to adjourn. It passed.

Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, of Michigan, however, was on the rostrum some seven times. When a motion was offered, she read it. She timed her entrances and exits so well that she never paused in an elliptical orbit, coming and going from the rostrum.

Each was excessively handsome, each delivered a speech. Each lambasted the Democrats and told a sympathetic audience that only the Republicans could save the country.

Each was excessively handsome,

each was excessively handsome, dainty figure, carefully coiffed, wore grey green. There were gold bangles, a medal and a watch on her wrists.

While they talked, the massed thousands of delegates and spectators were not always attentive. They read newspapers, chatted amiably, and moved around among them-

GUARDSMEN MUST SERVE THREE YEARS

Harrisburg, June 24 (AP)—Youths to want to enlist in the Pennsylvania National Guard to avoid the draft must be prepared to serve a full three-year tour of duty.

The Department of Military Affairs sent out that word today to all unit commanders. A spokesman said the move was designed to weed out those who might drop out of the guard after passing the draft age limit of 25.

At the same time, the National Guard Bureau at Washington increased Pennsylvania's quota strength by 3,200 men to accommodate a rush of enlistments resulting from the new draft program.

Guardsmen Draft Exempt

The new PNG quota is 19,194 officers and enlisted men compared to 15,970 authorized previously. As of last week, the guard's strength was 3,316 officers and men. But this figure has jumped sharply in the few days since Congress voted the draft bill.

Volunteers from the ages of 19 through 25 comprise the biggest portion of National Guard recruits.

That age group will be subject to induction into the armed services when President Truman signs the Selective Service bill into law in the next week or so.

National Guardsmen and members of organized reserves are draft-exempt. But other draft-age men will be subject to induction for 21 months in the regular armed forces after 90 days.

May Call On Teachers

Meanwhile, Col. Henry M. Gross, state director of the office of selective service records, said Pennsylvania's teachers may be asked to serve in registering the 750,000 eligible men. He forecast 30,000 will be inducted in the first year.

The military affairs department and the federal office of selective service records have been working in close cooperation in planning for the statewide system.

East Berlin—Mrs. Coit E. Eisenhart, who was confined to bed by illness for several days, is able to be about although still under treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Anderson and daughters, Joanne and Janie, who moved to the York area several years ago, from here where they operated the East Berlin hotel, have now moved to Hampton. Janie has been spending several days among local friends.

Building operations have been begun for the new home of the Emory W. Sell family, on the lot on Harrisburg street which the Sells bought from their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Myers, Silver Run, Md., formerly of here. The house, south of town, which the Sells built for themselves last year, was sold some weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey C. Love, who night working schedule as soon as we have the legal authority to go ahead," said Gross.

Gross asked the members of the old selective service boards as long as a year ago if they would be willing to serve again. He explained it was merely a move at that time to set up a reserve for any emergency. Eighty per cent of the board members, appeal agents, physicians and dentists responded favorably.

Appoint Director First

Since that time the OSSR has been busy filling up vacancies on the boards to complete its reserve.

However, a system as large as that in World War II will not be required since the number of registrants will not be as great. Initial plans call for fewer than 200 local draft centers to handle registrants.

First move once the draft law becomes law will be the appointment of a state director by President Truman on the recommendation of Gov. James H. Duff and establishment of state headquarters, probably at the state capitol. Appointment of local boards and appeal agents will follow.

The department of military affairs, which established a selective service section on its state staff last year, will provide the trained officers for initial operations. Equipment and supplies also will be available from the Indianantown Gap military reservation.

returned to this country in April from Tokyo, Japan, where they held positions, are spending some time with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Boyd Nell, "Nell Manor," R. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Love recently spent some time with Illinois relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Chronister, near town, announced the birth of a son, their first child, last week at the Hanover hospital. The mother is the former Miss Florence Wilt, R. 3. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chronister are the paternal grandparents.

Mrs. Daisy Resser and Miss Ethel B. Resser have had as a guest this week Barbara Eck, eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred H. Eck, York, formerly of here.

Mrs. Ross Detter and family, near Two Churches, had as recent guests: Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Kimmel, Dover; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Livingston and children, Genevieve, Harold and Garry, Dover R. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Bowman and children, of York; Mr. and Mrs. Claud Murray and children, Roger and Doris, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Detter, all of Dillsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beller, Pittsburg.

Miss Marian L. Phillips, who has completed her junior year in the home economics department of Temple university, Philadelphia, is spending the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Phillips.

Mrs. Mary Stambaugh and family recently entertained Mrs. Katherine Lutz, Mrs. Mae Slaybaugh, Mrs. Cordelia Lippa and William Baeder, all of Harrisburg.

Mrs. John Harr, R. 2, who has been under medical treatment this spring, is now recuperating satisfactorily after a major operation performed at the Hanover hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kothe and Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Taylor and daughter, Evelyn, R. 2, formerly of Washington, D. C., entertained a party of friends from that city during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton C. Smith, Hanover, are observing their tenth wedding anniversary this week. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Beatrice E. Hess, this place.

Mrs. Mary Stambaugh, who bought the former William W. Reser property and recently completed renovations to it, reports having found there a pane of glass in an upstairs window, on which had been inscribed: "This glass was saved among debris in the hailstorm of June 25, 1886, when the entire crops were destroyed throughout this section." Persons living here at that time have recalled that the hailstones measured 2½ inches deep, and about 50 years later, in June, 1936, that record was threatened, by another hailstorm that did serious damage to trees, gardens and property and killed large numbers of cattle and chickens, particularly at the east end of East Berlin.

Miss Eleanor B. Wolf, a daughter of the late Charles and Mary Bender Wolf, is convalescing after her recent eye operation performed at the York hospital. Miss Wolf has been under treatment by oculists for several months, and in October had undergone a serious operation on her other eye.

Juzgado is the Spanish word for a trial court. From it the U. S. got the slang word "hoosegow," meaning a jail.

VOID RUSSIAN MONEY IN WEST BERLIN SECTOR

Berlin, June 24 (AP) — The Western Allies, in defiance of the Russians, declared Wednesday a newly proclaimed Russian currency will be void in the western sectors of Berlin.

They said, in a proclamation to the people of the city, that a separate currency will be introduced in the three western sectors. The announcement was broadcast by the U.S.-sponsored radio station, RIAS.

The three western commandants for the city ordered all banks and business institutions except food and drug stores closed. A moratorium on debts was ordered.

Violates Rules

The Russian order for currency reform in Berlin, announced early this morning, "violates the rules of four-power government," the western power proclamation said.

"The three western occupation powers therefore declare the order over currency reform in Berlin null and void," it said.

The Berlin magistrate, executive body of the city government, decided at a special meeting a short time before not to accept the Russian order for the entire city. It ruled that an occupation commander can issue orders only for his own zone.

The western proclamation said the western powers "cannot submit to such arbitrary action which is in violation and total disregard to the actual quadrupartite status of Berlin, and which violates all agreements respecting the management of money and banking affairs of the city."

The statement charged that the Soviet authorities were trying "to usurp the authority to dominate the economic affairs of Berlin."

TROOPS UNLOAD SHIPS AT LONDON

London, June 24 (AP) — The labor wharves Wednesday to unload food cargoes tied up for 10 days by a wildcat strike of dock workers.

An official statement from Prime Minister Attlee's office said:

"As work has not been resumed in the London docks and perishable food needed by the people is in danger of deterioration and waste, the government has decided that it has no alternative in the public interest but to utilize service personnel to safeguard the people's food supplies, particularly those of a perishable nature."

The soldiers began unloading the food ships at noon. The decision to use troops was made by a special emergencies committee of the cabinet following failure of a back-to-work movement this morning.

The dock workers walked out 10 days ago in a wildcat strike. They demanded reinstatement of 11 dock workers who were penalized for refusing to handle "dirty cargo" of zinc oxide without extra pay.

Official figures showed 19,771 men idle today. About 950 men went back to work this morning in response to a union appeal. At least 7,000 dock workers never joined the strike.

The labor government has used troops several times to restore strike-bound essential services since it came to power in 1945.

PLAY KEEPS KIDS OUT OF TROUBLE

New Castle, Pa., June 24 (AP) — Play is the thing in New Castle these days and it has nothing to do with the drama but lots to do with juvenile delinquency.

"Recreation," insists New Castle Mayor John F. Haven, "is the answer to city juvenile delinquency. There's no question about it."

"Get the kids out into the open. Give them a chance to play. Break up the little cliques that develop into gangs. It's paying off here 100 per cent."

GIVES WARNING ON POISON IVY

One of the few poisonous plants in this country, poison ivy becomes increasingly common in south-central Pennsylvania. It grows as either a low bush or vine. The shiny ovate, pointed leaves have scalloped edges. They appear in groups of three. The stem of the middle leaf is two to three times longer than the other two. Insignificant blossoms of a dull white color appear in June and July. They are borne in slender clusters at the junction of the leaf and his administration practice what he preaches with the following results: In the past two years not a boy or a girl from Lawrence county has had to be sent to a correctional institution.

The mayor, a Republican, started a super-recreational program about three years ago, soon after his term started. He got re-elected last fall, largely on its success and this year was even able to get more appropriated for the work.

The present recreational budget is $25,000 for this community of 54,000, the city providing $15,000 and the school board $10,000.

stem and branch. The tiny fruit appears in pendulous clusters, is lusterless and ivory-colored.

Some persons seem quite immune to ivy poisoning, which is caused by a non-volatile, intensely active acid oil. Others are so susceptible to it they seem to contract a rash from air blowing across the plant. The common manner of contracting the malady is by direct contact with the plant or with clothing that has brushed it. The sensitive person is easily poisoned if perspiring at the time this weed is touched. As a precaution, one who has been in poison ivy should wash exposed parts with strongly alkaline soap to remove the oil deposit. Indications of ivy poisoning follow contact with the plant in a few hours. Redness, swelling, burning and itching precede the appearance of little blisters that increase in size and number. They may become infected. The discomfort may become great, with constitutional symptoms surprisingly severe. It is a wise plan, when afflicted with ivy poisoning, to consult your doctor.

Experts estimate that reserves of natural gas are sufficient to meet demands for many years.

Prices Continue To Climb; At New Highs

Washington, June 24 (AP) — Prices moved up another seven-tenths of a per cent between mid-April and mid-May to reach a new high.

Food prices jumped 1.4 per cent for another record peak.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its consumers' price index for last month showed a general price increase of 9.3 per cent over last year, 27.9 per cent over June, 1946, and 72.9 per cent over August, 1939. Food went 12.4 per cent above last year, 44.8 per cent over June, 1946, and 125.6 per cent over August, 1939.

STUDY AIR ARM

Harrisburg, June 24 (AP) — A new national guard air squadron will be activated at Avoca airport near Scranton if a present survey is favorable, the Department of Military Affairs reported. Col. John W. Weltman, commanding officer of the 53rd air wing, Pennsylvania national guard, said after a tour of the airport yesterday that a suitable location was found.

GOP Convention PENNA. WOMEN IN DELEGATION ARE HAVING FUN

By BILLY WHEELOCK

Philadelphia, June 24 (P) — Tired feet, the curse of national conventions, has been licked by one of Pennsylvania's pert and pretty women alternate delegates.

Mrs. Nancy Gard of Irwin, from Westmoreland county, settled down comfortably in the turmoil of Tuesday night's session, sighed contentedly and pointed at her feet.

"I wear my 'old lady' shoes — they don't look pretty but they're long on comfort."

Full Of Enthusiasm

And for Mrs. Marguerite F. Hemphill of Beaver Falls, alternate delegate-at-large, it wasn't shoes but breakfast in bed that brought her out last night still fresh and full of enthusiasm at the end of two grueling days of the Republican convention.

"I don't get started too early in the mornings. I've learned from three conventions the early bird doesn't catch anything in the morning that won't be around in the afternoon," Mrs. Hemphill said.

Tuesday night was a night of memories for Mrs. Hemphill and three other women in the Pennsylvania delegation which includes nine feminine delegates and 22 alternates.

Recalls 1928

As former president Herbert Hoover waved his hand to the shouts and applause before he began his address, Mrs. Hemphill recalled another convention 20 years ago in Kansas City when she and three other Pennsylvania women were there to see him nominated.

Tuesday night as in 1928, the four women were again part of the Keystone state's delegation. They were Mrs. Worthington Scranton, na-

Two Trainmen Die In Bellefonte Crash

Bellefonte, Pa., June 24 (P) — A conductor and brakeman were killed and three other trainmen injured when two freight trains collided two miles south of here yesterday.

The dead were identified by Pennsylvania railroad officials as Conductor James Bathurst, 58, of Bellefonte, and Brakeman R. J. Miller, 24, of Blanchard.

The two trains, one a westbound nine-car freight, carrying a load of limestone, and the other a three-car eastbound switch train, came together on a curve midway between Axeman and Pleasant Gap.

The two dead men were in a caboose which was demolished in the collision. One engine was derailed. The cause of the accident was not determined.

Presbyterians Keep W-J College On List

Pittsburgh, June 24 (P) — Officials of the Presbyterian church said last night that Washington and Jefferson college has been retained on the list of "Christian and Presbyterian colleges" worthy of church financial support.

Dr. E. E. Robb, of McKeesport, care of the house work. I left plenty of work to keep them down on the farm," she said.

And Katherine Keiser of Reading wasn't worrying about the agricultural equipment business she deserted for the convention. Her sisters and brothers are running the show.

"I'm having a wonderful time," Miss Keiser sighed, and then pointed to her orchid corsage. "It's making its last appearance here, but I'm good to the finish."

From Hospital To Convention

Red-haired Mrs. Jennie C. Ritter, alternate from Allentown, has attended every Republican convention since 1924, but if looked for a while as if she might have to miss this year's show.

"I was in the hospital 10 days ago, but I was determined to be here this time — I couldn't miss the year we're to nominate the next president."

Mrs. Caroline Shaw Tatom of Glenshaw, Pittsburgh suburb, feels right at home around Philadelphia — she went to Bryn Mawr.

"But I'm only five feet tall and I've been caught in every traffic jam and crowd in Philadelphia. I've been flattened like a rug every time I turn around. I've given up riding elevators."

moderator of the state synod of the church, said the Presbyterian board of education had approved the school and that the synod had endorsed the board's action.

The action apparently ended a dispute which began last January after certain leaders of the church had accused the college of permitting drinking by students on the campus and of condoning other acts considered non-Christian.

"This action can be interpreted to mean that the board and school authorities have resolved most of their differences," Dr. Robb stated. He said that a special church committee, which met recently with school officials, will continue to function "to clear up remaining differences."

Mrs. Esther H. Dunsmore of Philipsburg in Centre county, wasn't making any predictions on who'll be the winner at the convention. "But any one of the candidates in the race would make a wonderful President," she said.

CHECK PHILA. LAWS

Harrisburg, June 24 (P) — Philadelphia's $2,000,000 tax scandal has prompted a commonwealth agency to open a study of Philadelphia city and county laws for possible corrective action. The joint State Government commission, a research agency of the legislature, announced yesterday that it will make a survey to determine the need, if any, for new legislation.

Senator Weldon B. Heyburn (R-Delaware), chairman of the commission, said he has been informed that the Philadelphia governmental system is "archaic and ought to be brought up to date."

News Of Special Interest To Residents Of Emmitsburg And Vicinity

COUPLE IS WED IN ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH TUESDAY

Before an altar banked with white gladioli, Madonna lilies, white hydrangea and fern, Miss Loretta Sanders, daughter of George H. Sanders, West Main street, Emmitsburg, became the bride of James O. Adelsberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwen Adelsberger, West Main street, Emmitsburg, at a nuptial mass on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Francis Stauble, pastor of both the bride and the groom, officiated in St. Joseph's church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Richard Sanders, U. S. Navy, was attired in a gown of white marquise with frosted all over floral design, fashioned with a dropped shoulder, outlined with a deep ruffle of matching material, long sleeves ending in a ruffle over the hand. The full gathered skirt fell from a tight basque into a long formal train and was made with tiers of ruffles of matching material which ran into the train. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, which at the conclusion of the mass she presented to the Blessed Virgin, while the hymn "Mother at Your Feet We're Kneeling" was sung by Guy A. Baker, Jr.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen Goulsen, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of aqua chiffon with sweet-heart neckline with a tight bodice, buttoned down the back to the waist from which fell a full gathered skirt, long sleeves which fit tight around the wrist. She wore a shoulderette veil of blue net which fell from a wreath of matching flowers and she carried a bouquet of red rosebuds.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Gerald Ryder, Jr., a friend of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were, Francis Adelsberger, brother of the groom, and Jack Stoner.

Mrs. Adelsberger, mother of the groom, wore a black and white flowered dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The traditional wedding marches were played by the church organist, Mrs. Euphemia Rotering, accompanied on the violin by Prof. William Sterbinsky. Before the ceremony, Gounod's "Ave Marie" was sung by Mrs. Marie Rosenthal.

During the mass, "Jesus, My Lord, My God, My All" and "At Communion" was sung by Mrs. Rosenthal, and "O, Lord I Am Not Worthy" and "Mother At Your Feet We're Kneeling" was sung by Guy A. Baker, Jr.

"On This Day O Beautiful Mother" was sung by the entire choir. Several violin selections were rendered by Prof. Sterbinsky during the mass accompanied by Mrs. Rosenthal.

Following the ceremony a breakfast was held at the home of the groom which was attended by the wedding party and immediate families, numbering about twenty-five.

On Wedding Trip

The mass was served by Paul and Raymond Sanders, cousins of the bride.

The bride's going away outfit was a pink linen suit, large pink picture hat and white accessories.

Mrs. Adelsberger is a graduate of St. Joseph's high school, class of '46, and at the time of her marriage was employed by the Cambridge Rubber company, Taneytown. The groom is a graduate of Emmitsburg high school, class of '38, and is employed as a clerk at the Emmitsburg post office. He served 5½ years in the U. S. Army, two years of which were spent in Hawaii and the remainder in California and Arizona. He served in the regular army and was attached to the Air Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelsberger left immediately following the breakfast on a wedding trip of unannounced destination and upon their return will reside in their newly furnished apartment at the home of the bride's father.

Public Cooperates; Keep Alleys Open

Emmitsburg residents are cooperating well with the ban on parking in alleys, Burgess Thornton Rodgers said today.

The borough head said that warnings issued by the new borough policeman during the past week have apparently been sufficient to break up the practice of parking in the one-way alleys of the borough and that the population seems more than willing to cooperate with the drive which is designed indirectly to keep down insurance rates.

With the alleys so narrow, fire company equipment would be unable to get to fires in barns and the like along alleys if the practice of parking in the alleys should continue, Rodgers pointed out.

Officials of the company said today they hope as many other members of the company as possible will be able to make the 200 mile trip to Ocean City Friday to swell the ranks of the company in the parade.

Announce Activities For Elias Lutheran

The Women's Missionary society will meet Wednesday, June 30, at 6:30 p. m. in the Lutheran Parish house. This will be a covered dish meal meeting with each member bringing a dish and another member of the congregation along to this meeting. This is the first of the regular quarterly supper meetings. A good program is promised and all the women of the congregation are welcome and invited to become members of the Missionary society. The leaders in charge of the supper and the meeting are: Mrs. J. W. Houser, Mrs. M. R. Tate, Mrs. Charles Rowe, Mrs. R. M. Zacharias, Mrs. Albert Patterson and Mrs. Charles Landers.

The regular Sunday for the next Holy Communion at Elias Lutheran church is July 4, at 10:30 a. m.

Children's Day will be observed next Sunday, June 27, at the church service at 10:30 a. m. The Junior choir will sing. There will be a special rehearsal of the Junior choir Thursday evening at 7 p. m. The choir is now under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Bollinger and is meeting regularly for rehearsals every Thursday night.

Further testimony disclosed that the child was a hopeless invalid, unable to walk and crippled badly in both arms and legs. The slaying took place at the family's Lehigh county home May 3.

Testifying at her trial, Mrs. Fiertag admitted she had stuffed gauze wadding into Esther Fiertag's mouth and then held her nostrils and mouth closed until the child stopped breathing.

COUPLE MARKS 50TH WEDDING DAY ON SUNDAY

Delegates of the Emmitsburg fire company left this morning for

GOP Convention

CROWD HOARSE AFTER 7 MEN ARE NOMINATED

By HAL BOYLE
Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—Convention sidelights:

The people's voice, filtered through 14,000 Republican larynxes, wore down to a whisper today after nearly seven hours of yelling for their seven "peoples' choices."

The Grand Old Party's grandest old party began with a stirring exchange of war whoops and boos between people for and against Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

Ended At 4:02 Today

It ended at 4:02 a. m. with a hoarse tired cheer for General Douglas MacArthur in hall three-quarters empty.

By then the hall looked like it held a semi-nudist convention meeting in the wreckage of a hurricane. Confetti, torn streamers, discarded paper cups and sandwich scraps littered the floor. Three fugitive red balloons bobbed against the ceiling, trailing "Win With Taft" pennants.

The men delegates long since had discarded their coats, their neckties and ripped open their collars. Many lady delegates had slipped their feet out of their shoes.

Seven Proposed

As the delegates filed out, the janitors awoke from catnaps and went to work.

Had the dawn come up like thunder today it would have sounded only like a whisper to the weary Republicans dreaming sweet victory dreams—for Tom Dewey. Or Taft, or Warren. Or Stassen. Or Baldwin. Or Vandenberg. Or MacArthur.

Last night the voices named these seven. Today or tonight or tomorrow votes will pick the one survivor—the 1948 nominee.

GOP Sidelights

One elderly marcher, after trudging half an hour in the Dewey parade around the hall, sat down next to his wife and said:

"All right, mother, I've knocked myself out."

Another delegate grabbed a friend and tried to get him to march around again:

"Come on, Ed!"

GOP Convention GOP PLATFORM IS CAREFULLY WORDED PAPER

By JAMES MARLOW

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—The Republican party's 1948 platform, adopted by the convention here, is a pretty carefully worded document.

This platform, like the platforms offered the voters in other years by Republicans and Democrats, is supposed to do a couple of things.

Please as many voters as possible, which means promising to do things for them in various fields of American living.

2. Show where the Republican party stands in this year of 1948 on American and world problems.

It's a careful, cautious statement, particularly so when it touches on social problems. For example, on education the platform says:

"We favor equality of educational opportunity for all and the promotion of education and educational facilities."

There is nothing there suggesting the Republican party intends to do anything specific about federal aid—money—for education. At the same time, it doesn't say the Republicans won't do that.

School Bill Dies

A bill providing federal aid for schools died in the House this year after passing the Senate. Opponents said they did not want to see the government get mixed up in education.

This year President Truman was swamped in protests from his own southern Democrats for his program on civil rights. Southern Negroes would have benefited most if that program had been carried through by Congress.

One of the things he asked Congress to do was wipe out the poll tax which has to be paid in eight states, seven of them in the south, before a person can vote there.

In their 1944 platform the Republicans took a more specific stand on the poll tax than they did in this new 1948 platform. In 1944 the platform said:

Favor Amendment

"The payment of any poll tax should not be a condition of voting in federal elections and we favor immediate submission of a constitutional amendment for its abolition."

One of the main arguments of southerners against any attempt by Congress to wipe out the poll tax by law, was this:

It would be an interference by the federal government in a state's rights and that one of those rights is having a poll tax, if a state wishes.

That's why the 1944 platform spoke of getting rid of the tax by an amendment to the constitution. That would require approval by 36 states.

But white southerners, Republicans and Democrats alike, are more over Mr. Truman's program. And this year, particularly, the Republicans have a chance to snatch away a lot of votes from the Democrats in the south.

Oppose Poll Tax

This year's platform on the poll tax says simply: "We favor abolition of the poll tax as a requisite to voting."

Nothing is said about how it should be abolished. It merely puts the party on record as favoring getting rid of the tax. That's probably the least that could be said without costing the Republicans some southern votes.

In 1944 the Republican platform said: "We pledge the establishment by federal legislation of a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission (FEPC)."

But the south is bitter about the whole idea of an FEPC which would block the employer from refusing to hire a man because of color, race or creed.

FEPC Inferred

This year the Republican platform makes no mention of an FEPC. It says:

"(The) right of equal opportunity to work and to advance in life should never be limited in any individual because of race, religion, color or country of origin. We favor the enactment and just enforcement of such federal legislation as may be necessary to maintain this right at all times in every part of this republic."

The wording of that paragraph—although not mentioning FEPC—seems to leave the door open to setting up an FEPC or something like it if the Republicans win. But it doesn't say so in so many words.

Vast peat bogs helped make the Po Valley in Italy one of the most fertile spots on the globe.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, the urge to urinate, and pain under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with a smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Littlestown

Littlestown—A pre-camp training for the members of the staff and the counselors and all other women who have volunteered to help at the Littlestown Girl Scout day camp to be held July 6 to 10 will be conducted Saturday at 1 p.m. in the grove adjoining St. John's Lutheran church. The training course will be in charge of Miss Marion Tupper, Adams County Girl Scout counselor.

The softball team of Sonny's and Harry's defeated the softball team of the Littlestown Lions club by a score of 7 to 6 on Wednesday evening.

The Rev. Dr. M. Coover, Williamsport, father of Dr. Donald B. Coover, Littlestown, has moved from Williamsport to the first floor of the Barker apartments, West King street. The Rev. Dr. Coover was a former member of the faculty of the Gettysburg Theological seminary.

The Rev. David S. Kammerer has announced that the meeting of the Abigail Kammerer missionary society of St. Paul's Lutheran church which had been previously announced for July 6 has been changed to July 12. This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Ritter, South Queen street.

Children's Day practice will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church on Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. James Fager, chairman of the poppy committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ocker-Snyder Post No. 321, American Legion, has announced that the first prize of $3 for the sale of poppies was awarded to Dixie Nester of Girl Scout Troop No. 15 and the second prize of $2 was awarded to Louise Kerns of Troop No. 26. The Girl Scouts of Littlestown sold the 1948 poppies for the Legion Auxiliary.

RUSSIA MOVES TO SET UP NEW GERMAN STATE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Events appear to be moving rapidly toward a formal division of Germany into two states—one comprising the Soviet eastern zone and the other the western areas occupied by America, Britain and France.

Russia and six satellite countries have been staging a highly secret conference in Warsaw, and are authoritatively stated to be considering the creation of a separate state in eastern Germany. They also are said to be planning another assault on the Marshall Plan.

Present in this meeting are representatives of the Soviet Union, Albania, Poland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary. The Russian delegation is headed by none other than Foreign Minister Molotov, Stalin's right-hand man. The streets of the Polish capital have been lined with thousands of troops armed with tommy-guns to ensure the safety and privacy of the conferees, who have been meeting in Warsaw palace.

Berlin Would Be Crippled

Should Moscow create a separate German state it would of course be added to the satellite nations which Russia overran during and since the war.

A most extraordinary and dangerous aspect of this situation is that the once proud capital city of Berlin lies in the heart of the Russian zone, although it is partitioned among the four allies for purposes of military occupation. Thus not only would both eastern and western Germany be deprived of the capital, but the most important communications center of all Europe would be divided against itself—a badly crippled giant.

Actually such a Russian move would formalize a situation which already exists in effect. The difference would be that hope of a united Germany would be killed, thereby dealing a heavy blow to general European economic rehabilitation. Germany long has been a keystone of continental economy, and the western allies have been striving for unity in order to speed the general program of recovery.

New Offensive

The new Soviet project represents another offensive in her cold war against democracy. It would create a delicate situation, but would fall short of actual gunfire.

As things now stand there seems small chance of achieving a united Germany short of some development which will enable the people of eastern Germany to re-assert themselves and throw off the Muscovite yoke.

SET DEADLINE IN PEACE TALK ON COAL CRISIS

Washington, June 24 (AP)—The government fixed a late afternoon deadline today for John L. Lewis' 400,000 United Mine Workers.

The inquiry board also had an-extremely promising. But it was still possible they might flop, requiring the inquiry board to report a new stalemate.

In that event, it was learned, the Justice Department is all set for the President's signal to seek another Taft-Hartley law injunction against a summer mine shutdown.

The department may ask for a court ban against either a lockout by the operators or a strike by Lewis' 400,000 United Mine Workers.

The inquiry board also had another piece of news yesterday for the White House.

Lewis has hinted broadly that even if a court order against a strike is obtained the miners may either refuse to work or work only at part speed. They have a traditional "no contract, no work" policy.

At least a tentative agreement on some contract points seems to have been worked out already in the talks that were resumed Tuesday night at the inquiry board's invitation.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, the urge to urinate, and pain under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with a smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Do you take Doan's Pill? It is a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's Pill gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pill.
